Attorney Gregory T. Hixson Joins Veris Law Group

SEATTLE – October 20, 2015 – Seattle-based Veris Law Group PLLC ("Veris") is pleased to announce that Gregory T. Hixson has joined the firm as an of counsel attorney.

Greg focuses his practice on environmental, natural resources, tribal, and construction law matters. On the environmental and natural resource front, he helps clients comply with environmental regulations, develop cost-effective plans to remediate contaminated properties, and recover the costs spent to investigate and clean up contaminated properties. He also represents clients at complex multi-party Superfund sites involving cleanup actions and natural resource damage (NRD) claims. Greg litigates cases, when necessary, to prosecute and defend claims arising under federal and state laws, including the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act (CERCLA), Washington's Model Toxics Control Act (MTCA), and the Clean Water Act (CWA). With respect to tribal matters, Greg assists Tribes with environmental issues, including the development, implementation, and enforcement of Tribal environmental programs, such as hazardous substance control laws and solid waste management programs. As to Greg's construction practice, he handles a variety of matters, including drafting and negotiating construction contracts, defending and prosecuting lien foreclosure actions, and litigating construction defect claims and complex construction claims.

Howard Jensen, one of Veris' founders, states, "Greg is a perfect complement to our practice. His extensive environmental experience, combined with his background in tribal and construction law matters, will significantly enhance the range and depth of services we provide our clients. We are extremely pleased to have a lawyer of his caliber on board."

Greg is a frequent author and speaker on a variety of environmental, natural resources, tribal, and construction topics. He received his J.D. from Seattle University School of Law (2007) and his B.S. from Western Washington University (1997).
